Subject: Tutorial #1, Workshop on LA County Public Records:, Public Records that are Judicial Records, Computers, and Alleged Court Corruption, involvement of Countrywide/Bank of America.

March 9, 2009

Dear Ms Hollingsworth, Yolanda and others:

ANNOUNCEMENT

WORKSHOP ON LA COUNTY PUBLIC RECORDS

A number of people expressed interest in studying the records. And on the other hand, from the comments it appears that I was misunderstood. It's time to stop improvising, and do a tutorial. I added to the email list some faculty in law schools, and I hope that they would contribute.

Tuition:

We hope that anybody who enters the workshop area agrees with the need to free the FIPs and sign the petition as a minimum. Obtaining one additional signature would be appreciated. Obviously, if a person does not agree, he/she should not sign. No rights or privileges will be denied based on signature or lack thereof.

The Issues:

Special emphasis will be given throughout, to the role of computers in current state of affairs, and we would explore potential solutions.

Areas of concentration:

a) Public familiarity with the public records.

Educate ourselves regarding public records of LA County

At present, even attorneys do not know which records are valid, which are not. What kinds of records exist in the county? Where? Who is in control?

b) Collect data, evaluate:

Current state of Public Access to public record.

c) Critically explore allegations:

LA County is denying public access to public records

d) Critically explore allegations:

California Courts deliberately ambiguated court records.

e) Critically explore allegations:

LA Superior Court routinely engages in fraud and "double books" in trial court litigation records.

f) Critically explore allegations:

LA Superior Court is operated in violation of the law relative to the failure to maintain valid, published, Local Rules of Court. where the public was allowed reasonable opportunity to comment and object.

g) Critically explore allegation summed as:

LA County maintains tribunals that are inadequate by standards of International Law which bind the U.S.

h) Critically explore allegations summed as:

Large law-firms such as Sheppard Mullin and Bryan Cage LLP, actively colluded with the court in exploiting such corrupt records systems, and try to evaluate any evidence regarding such collusion - to what degree they were familiar with the technical details.

i) Critically explore allegations summed as:

Countrywide, now Countrywide/Bank of America knowingly colluded in wrongdoing with the court, through engagement, or sham engagement of Bryan Cave, LLP, as Outside Counsel, in Samaan v Zernik, in the LA superior Court.

j) Critically explore allegations summed as:

The evidence credibly demonstrates that Countrywide and now Countrywide/Bank of America failed to comply with Sarbanes Oxley, section 307, relative to reporting of material violations of the law.

j) Critically explore allegations summed as:

The evidence credibly demonstrates that Countrywide/Bryan Cave are allowed to continue with wrongdoing following publicly sponsored Bailout-Merger with Bank of America, and there is no evidence of response by Bank of America to requests to stop such wrongdoing.

j) Critically explore allegations summed as:

The evidence credibly demonstrates that following publicly sponsored Bailout-Merger, Bank of America started engaging in conduct that amounts to wrongdoing relative to its actions in LA Superior Court, and it acquired wrongful patterns of conduct from Countrywide.

WORKSHOP

j) Critically explore allegations of:

Racketeering by various parties listed above.

k) Critically explore allegation summed as:

The racket at the LA Superior Court, in its current manifestation originated with installation of Sustain"

l) Critically explore allegation summed as:

The evidence is unequivocal - Sustain was conceived and designed to deceive.

m) Critically explore allegation summed as:

"The LA Superior Court, through the use of Sustain, is running a multiple track operation, and some of its cases can be best designated "Enterprise Track" cases, many of which are real estate litigation."

n) Critically evaluate statement summed as:

"Any case management system should be deemed as new rules of court. No such system should be installed prior to reasonable opportunity for public review and objections."

n) Critically explore allegation summed as:

Based on the evidence reviewed, claims by Judge Connor that she had made "errors" in jury instructions in the First Rampart Trial (2000), cannot be accepted by a reasonable person at face value.

o) Critically explore allegation summed as:

Based on the evidence reviewed, claims that judges of the Superior Court who convicted the Rampart FIPs were "duped" by corrupt police, but did not collude with such police, cannot be seriously entertained by a reasonable person.

p) We will try to Define methods to identify the FIPs based on existing and accessible records,

q) We will try to Identify records, where access is a must for expedient identification of the Rampart - FIPs.

q) We will try to

Critically review, and define reliable methods for computerized review of court records relative to alleged wrongdoing by individual judges, so as to be able to create a computer generated "Index" or "score" of wrongdoing by individual judges.

r) We will Discuss and try to Propose recommendations, based on public policy principles, how such situation should be handled, e.g.: Protocols for Truth and Reconciliation Committees, review experiences from other countries

The Purpose:

Familiarize each other with the public records of LA County, and produce in the process some basic tools for others to use. In order to free the Rampart-FIPs and stop the alleged racket, the public must gain access to public records, and create conditions so that such records are adequately maintained in the future.

Venue:

WORKSHOP

Group meetings in your free time at:

http://www.care2.com/c2c/group/restore_justice_in_la_group

Schedule of Classes:

- I may post there URLs for Tutorials and home work.
- Others are welcome to post instructional materials as well.
- All can join, post, learn as they wish.

Textbooks:

- I have posted considerable amount of public records from my cases and others at <http://inproperinla.com/>
- Others are encouraged to advertise any significant records they post online.

Mode of discussion

- I divided the area of the "group restore justice in la" into several strings to start out, but it is all just first guess on how to make it work..
- I am looking particularly for suggestions on what sequence to have people review the records posted in <http://inproperinla.com/>
- What we are talking about is building a curriculum
- We of course would be grateful to the court if it decided to comply with the law, and provide access so that we could inspect and copy.

Dear Mr. Zernick,
Yolanda Gibson-Michaels forwarded a copy of your email to me. I blogged about Mr. Fine last week:
<http://www.dcexaminer.com/opinion/blogs/SharpSticks/>
I have been writing about judicial corruption in Virginia, where a grassroots group called the Pitchfork Rebellion has been trying to oust a judge. One of the members went to the courthouse and found that a member's file had been tampered with. According to your email, this happens all the time in LA. Is there any other way to verify this without having someone physically pull a file and compare to trial transcripts?
